

5 ABSTRACT

A transport apparatus for lying transport of elongated meat products has at least one endless displacing member for advancing product carriers. The displacing member is moved in a frame by a driver. The endless displacing member is 10 driven at two separate positions. Tensing elements are placed between the separate positions of the drives.